Gt, 1864 And yet it cannot be doubted that the withdrawal of this congressional support would contribute effectively to the abolition of Slavery; not that, at this present moment, this congressional support is of any considerable value, but because its withdrawal would be an encouragement to that universal public opinion which must soon sweep this Barbarism from our country. It is one of the felicities of our present position that, by repealing all acts for the restitution of slaves, we may hasten the happy day of freedom and of peace. Regarding this question in its association with the broader question of universal emancipation, we find that every sentiment, or reason, or argument for the latter pleads for the repeal of these obnoxious statutes, but that the difficulties which are supposed to beset emancipation do not touch the proposed repeal, so that we might well insist upon the latter, even if we hesitated with regard to the former. But the committee find a new motive to the recommendation which they now make, when they see how important its adoption must be in securing the extinction of Slavery. But it is not enough to consider the proposed measure in its relations to emancipation. Even if Congress be not ready to make an end of Slavery, it cannot hesitate to make an end of all fugitive slave acts. Against the latter there are cumulative arguments of constitutional law and of duty, beyond any which can be arrayed against Slavery itself. A man may even support Slavery and yet reject the fugitive slave acts. The Fugitive Clause In The Constitution. And The Rules For Interpretation....
